Louw What I like about "Greeting from Knit Cafe" is that Suzan Mischer is creating a aura of comfort while you are not only reading but also knitting to this book. I have read a lot of reviews saying that this book is geared towards the "Californian" aesthetic, and that it has mostly patterns for thin people, but I would have to disagree. A lot of the patterns you see in this book are geared towards the younger knitting crowd who want to knit more than bulky philosopher's cardigans. A list of the patterns include: Architect scarf beret boxer shortshiking socks Chanel-ish cardigan jacket classic sweater for guys comfy socks computer keyboard cover felted saddle blanket baby blanket messenger bag huge shawl baby sweater pink dress kid's club skirt basic hat lace skirt with bow slala scarf love blanket lush hoodie peace pillow polo shirt pompom awning recycled scarf red carpet gown slouchy alpaca cardigan (my favorite) terry bathrobe weho bikini yarmulke yoga mat bag So as you can see there is a huge variety in patterns. I know the reviewer before me said that the skirt she wants to knit is on the front cover and I do agree it's not a great picture of the said skirt. However there is TWO pictures of that same skirt in the book, one is full frontal of the whole entire skirt on a model and the other is the close up of the lace panels. I measured myself and even though I am a good medium sized girl (and trust me I AM), I qualified for the small in this skirt pattern. Now you must know that this is a very contemporary knitting book, there are even a couple of baking recipes and other tid bits in here and I can understand how someone who is used to regular knitting books might not be used to a book like this. To some in the knitting world it could also be seen as a breath of fresh air. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Customer great book 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I got this book for two patterns: the hoodie ... By Patricia I got this book for two patterns: the hoodie and the pink sweater with the tails in front. Most of the patterns are geared to the young and (at least when the book was published) hip. This is not me.

When former CBS vice president Suzan Mischer decided to open a knitting store on Melrose Avenue, she wanted to create a place where people could gather, slow down, and talk (as well as buy supplies). The result was Knit Cafe, a sleek yet homey crafts store where an increasing number of Hollywood denizens regularly unwind with their needles and yarn. With the publication of Greetings from Knit Caf, knitters nationwide can join the famed store's ever-widening circle of devotees. This colorful, cozy, and chic book offers 30 of Knit Cafe's most dazzling patterns for "California style" projects ranging from hiking socks to a bikini to a "red carpet" gown. It also features stories about how the celebrated store came to be, the neighborhood it's in, the daily goings-on, and the improbable mlang of actors, surfers, doctors, and directors that gather there. Even a few favorite recipes from regular customers are included. Greetings from Knit Caf is, quite simply, the best way to share the history, spirit, and patterns of this unique yarn store without having to fight the traffic.
